

Healing Country

Bush Regeneration and Restoration Skills Workshops

Information BBQ
Friday 11th December 2026
12pm – 2pm

Armidale Tree Group, 80 Mann St. Armidale

Be part of a local bush restoration project. Workshops will be held in January – March 2027 and will cover:

- Site mapping
- Site preparation
- Plant identification
- Seed collection
- Native grass seed harvesting
- Seed processing and storage
- Propagation of seedlings
- Planting

Contact
Dave Widders
0448 655 113
neln.alc@snelandcare.org.au

Proudly presented by New England Landcare Network, Stringybark Ecological, Armidale Tree Group & BioBank Seeds through funding under the NSW Landcare Enabling Program, a collaboration of Local Land Services and Landcare NSW supported by the NSW Government

Bush Regeneration and Restoration Skills

More information:
Across 8 workshops you will follow a restoration project from planning through to planting. The workshops will start in mid January 2027 and run through to March 2027. Dates and locations for all workshops will be worked out to meet the groups needs.

The workshops are not accredited, but you will gain practical experience from local leaders in the bush regeneration and restoration sector. This program is being run through the New England Landcare Network and the workshops are being presented by Stringybark Ecological, Armidale Tree Group and BioBank Seeds.

Who is it for?

Aboriginal people who have a real interest in this field. You may be a Ranger or want to become one. There are great opportunities and support for people with these skills to follow opportunities in the bush regeneration and restoration sector. This sector is growing in our region with demand from:

- Renewable energy developments
- Transport NSW
- Mining
- Local farmers
- Government

Proudly presented by New England Landcare Network, Stringybark Ecological, Armidale Tree Group & BioBank Seeds through funding under the NSW Landcare Enabling Program, a collaboration of Local Land Services and Landcare NSW supported by the NSW Government